SUPREME COURT CALENDAR.

Twenty-Four Cases on Docket — Mary Rogers Name Does Not Appear.

Montpelier, April 27.—The trial calendar for the May term of supreme court has been made out by Melville E. Smiley, the clerk. Forty-four cases are set for trial and are divided by counties as follows: Addison 1, Bennington 2, Caledonia 9, Chittenden 6, Franklin 6, Grand Isle 1, Orleans 4, Rutland 5, Washington 4, Windham 1, Windsor 2.

Among the important matters are two poisoning cases from Bennington county in which Eugene Sargood figures, and the Windham county case of P. W. Manly vs. the Vermont Mutual Life Insurance Co.

The name of Marry Rogers, for whose benefit the sentence of death for the alleged murder of her husband was postponed by Governor Bell to permit the presentation of new evidence, does not appear, but probably will be brought before the court by petition.

STOCKING VERMONT WATERS.

Commissioner H. G. Thomas Preparing to Ship 100,000,000 Fry.

Stowe, April 27.—State Fish and Game Commissioner H. G. Thomas has been making arrangements to ship 100,000,000 fry to different parts of the state. Ten thousand brook trout will be shipped to Montpelier, 18,000 to Rutland, and 20,000 lake trout to Wallingford. April 28, 10,000 brook trout will be shipped to Waterbury, 20,000 to Wallingford, and 10,000 to Montpelier. Beginning Monday, fish will be shipped at the rate of from 30,000 to 50,000 a day until the stock is exhausted.

Granite Industry for Lowell.

Waterbury, April 27.—Mark Johnson, an expert stone cutter in the employ of Drew Daniels, of this place was in Lowell recently to see what inducements the town would give him to erect a modern stone shed in that place.

HITS OUR GERMAN TRADE

Berlin to End Our Commercial Agreement.

NEW TARIFF MARCH 1, '06

The Kaiser Wants a Reciprocity Treaty — America Must Offer Favors to Keep Present Conditions.

Berlin, April 27.—The Imperial government, preparatory to excluding the United States from the privileges of the new reciprocity treaties signed recently with seven European states, has formerly notified the government at Washington that the tariff agreement between Germany and the United States of July 10, 1900, will terminate March 1, 1906, the day the new treaties go into effect.

The communication also announces that Germany stands ready to negotiate a reciprocity treaty with the United States.

Washington, April 27.—Ambassador Tower has not yet notified the State Department that the German government has decided to terminate the existing tariff arrangement. The effect of a formal declaration of that kind would be very serious, it is feared. If the arrangement is denounced and no substitute is found, it may be that the United States and Germany will soon become involved in a disastrous tariff war.

INVITED TO BOSTON.

Grand Officers of the Grand Commandery of Vermont.

The grand officers of the Grand Commandery of Vermont of Knights Templar have received invitations from the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island to attend the celebration Wednesday, May 24, in Boston, of the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of that grand jurisdiction.

There will be a parade and review of the forty-six commanderies which belong to that body at 11 a. m. A special convocation of the Grand Commandery will be opened at 2.30, at which, following a reception of the invited guests, religious and historical exercises will be held. A grand banquet at 6.30 at the Hotel Somerset with post-prandial exercises will make a glorious ending of this festival celebration.

STUDENTS DISMISSED.

Costly Prank Played By Middlebury College Students.

Middlebury, April 27.—There has been quite an uprising in college circles for some days past, with a dismissal of three students as a sequel. On Friday night, April 14, when the false alarm of fire was pulled, an oil portrait of one of the old time professors in Middlebury college, which was hung in the chapel, was disfigured with paint.

It seems that three young men were involved as they were dismissed from the college. The names are withheld. "Dismissal" does not necessarily exclude the young men from a return to college at some future time, as an "expulsion" would.

AN OLD SUGAR MAKER.

Frank Hart, Aged 72 Years, Has Made 1,000 Pounds.

Enosburg Falls, April 27.—Frank Hart, of East Enosburg, from two hundred trees and three hundred buckets had made one thousand pounds of sugar April 24. Mr. Hart is seventy-two years old and has been obliged to hire only five days' labor.

Licenses in Rutland.

The Rutland license commissioners decided not to grant any fifth class licenses this year as there has been so much trouble there with them. The eleven permits issued which include only first, second and seventh class are as follows:

W. H. Valiquette, innkeeper's first class license at the Burwick House.

Thomas J. Lalor, innkeeper's first class license at the Bardwell House.

Michael B. McDonough, first class, Center street.

Mark Forman, first class, Wales street.

Frederick Fenn, first class, Center street.

Patrick J. Sullivan, first class, Wales street.

Stephen Crayn, first class, Center street.

H. Barrett, first class Brunswick House block, Merchants' Row.

William E. Dugan, second class, Center street.

George C. McCloy, second class, Center street.

Charles E. Barker, seventh class, cold storage plant, Cleveland avenue.

The commissioners saw fit to concentrate the saloons in the center of the city, the same as two years ago.

FREE MUNYON'S INHALER

A Package of Paw-Paw Pills
A Package of Catarrh Tablets

ABSOLUTELY FREE with Paw-Paw

There are certain forms of Catarrh of the head, nose and throat that positively require local treatment before the sore places can be healed. I have therefore determined to offer a complete Catarrh treatment at actual cost. I am giving my $1 Inhaler and a package of my Catarrh Tablets and a package of my Paw-Paw Pills with each bottle of my Paw-Paw.

The regular price of this complete treatment is $2, but I have instructed all druggists to furnish it for $1.00.

More than this, I will refund the money in every instance where people are not satisfied with the results. I want every sufferer of Catarrh, no matter what remedies he may have taken, to get this combination offer from his druggist. I know that the Paw-Paw will purify the blood and drive all catarrhal poisons from the system. I know that my Inhaler will cleanse and heal all the raw places, that it will go right to the seat of the disease, it reaches the spots. It penetrates obscure recesses where drugs taken into the stomach cannot reach. I know it will cure ringing and noises of the head and will prevent deafness.

The Stupid Recruit

[Original.]

Just before the opening of the spring of 1862 a tall, lank, green looking man entered one of the camps of the Confederate General Johnston at Nashville, Tenn., and said he would like to join the "rigiment." He was turned over to a drill sergeant, with instructions to try to make a soldier of him.

The Confederates were never conspicuous for soldierly appearance; indeed they were best noted as fighters. Yet notwithstanding the want of attention to the army regulations the recruit at once became noted for being the most unsoldierly man among them. The bump of discipline seemed to be a hollow in his head. He was constantly wandering from his command and spending long terms in the guardhouse for doing so. Though the sergeant spent hours drilling him, the recruit could never learn the difference between "carry" and "shoulder" arms. At least if he did he was sure to forget it the next day. On post he was continually making blunders. He was the butt of his regiment and the subject for innumerable tricks.

One morning he appeared at his colonel's tent and told him that he had been appointed spokesman for the enlisted men of his regiment to say that they desired to be led at once against the enemy. The colonel looked at the man, astonished, then quietly wrote a note, gave it to him and told him to take it to the regimental surgeon. The surgeon after reading it examined the bearer for his sanity, but sent him back with a paper stating that he was perfectly sane, though stupid.

The recruit next appeared at general headquarters and reported for "orderly." It was never known whether this was by mistake or for a joke, but the adjutant who made the detail was sent back to his company for doing so. The recruit attracted the attention of the staff for his awkwardness and when the general's tent was vacant blundered into it and was caught reading the general's papers. He was sent back to his colonel under guard, with a report of his conduct, whereupon the colonel, after considering the propriety of ordering him before a court martial, decided to recommend his discharge on the ground that it would be for the good of the service. But, the Confederacy at that time not being overburdened with powder food, the general commanding declined to grant the discharge on the ground that if the man was a fool he should be placed in the front rank, where the army might get rid of him to a purpose.

One night when the recruit was on outpost duty a shot was heard coming from where he was stationed, and he came running in, crying: "The Yanks air comin'! The Yanks air comin'!" The long roll was beaten, and the command turned out, forming in line of battle. But no enemy came. After waiting the attack for some time skirmishers were thrown out and found the body of the major, who had been officer of the day visiting the pickets. He had been shot through the head. The men were sent back to their tents, and the recruit was sent up under guard to the general. After considerable questioning the general sent him back to his regiment under care of an aid. The colonel was directed either to have the stupid ass shot "by mistake" or connive at his desertion.

The colonel chose the latter course. He called the recruit into his tent and told him he had decided to have him shot at sunrise the next morning. Then he sent him to his regiment with orders to his colonel to place him where he could escape during the night.

That was the last seen of the stupid recruit in that army. When the sun rose in the morning he was far away. The officer of the day reported the escape to the colonel, who received it with great satisfaction and at once reported it to the general, who was delighted at the wise course he had pursued. He sent back a congratulation on getting rid of a man so stupid that he didn't know a friend from an enemy. But the officer most relieved was the captain of the company to which the recruit belonged.

Early in April of that year the battle of Shiloh was fought, and among the prisoners taken by the Union forces was this very captain. One of the men who marched him in stepped up along side of him and said:

"Cap, yo' don't remember me."

"Great heavens, the stupid recruit!"

"Not so stupid as yo' all supposed. Yo' was very patient with me, cap, while I was under your command, an' I hope to do some'n for yo'."

Later the stupid recruit visited the captain and made him open his eyes still wider by the following explanation:

"Yo' see, yo'r major and I was both east Tennesseans, whar the Unionists and Confederates hated each other like pizen. Once when I came home from Knoxville I found my home burned to the ground. My wife and only child was turned out in a winter's night, and both died from exposure. The man that did the job was your major. I knew all about him, but he'd never seen me."

He afterward joined the Confederate, I the Union army. I bel'n a south'n man, the general, thinkin' I'd pass well down thar, sent me south fo' information. I run across the major and got even with him. When yo' go back tell the general of he missed any papers he'll find 'em in the adjutant general's office of our army."

At the request of the man who had brought him valuable information the Union general under whom the stupid recruit served paroled the Confederate captain until he should be exchanged.

"Goodby, cap," said the stupid recruit. "Tell the curnel I hated to fool him, but I couldn't help it."

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Man Claiming to Be Deserter Arrested in Burlington.

Burlington, April 27.—A young man walked into the police office yesterday and asked if the chief was in. He was shown to the chief to whom he stated he was a deserter from the United States army, that he had become tired of wandering about and wanted to give himself up. His intentions seemed genuine and Officer John Ryan took him to Fort Ethan Allen and delivered him over to the authorities.

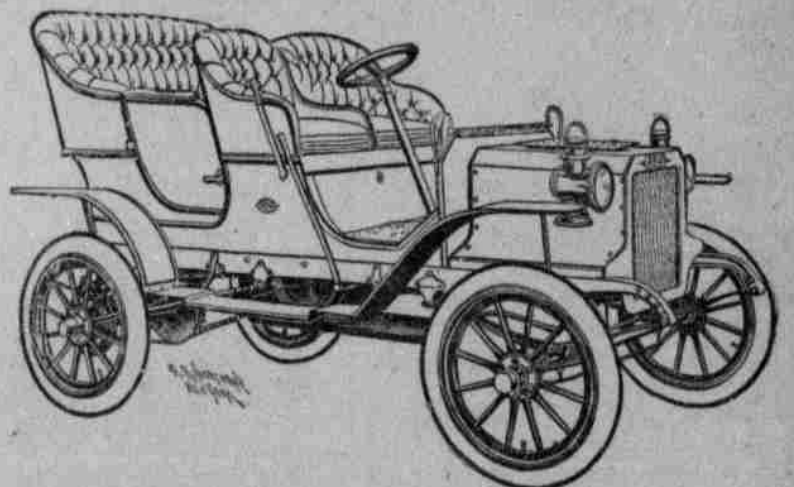

The man said his name was John Murphy and that he deserted at Portland last October. Since that time he has been wandering about Canada.
